Dear Tribute,
I recently picked up the June issue of Tribute and I can't believe how much information it had. I have everything I need to know about upcoming summer movies. I'll be looking for the next issue.

Yvonne Chau Toronto, ON

Dear Tribute,
I recently saw the Jennifer Garner movie 13 Going on 30. I was just wondering about the actor who played Matty. Who is he and what other movies has he been in?

*James W.
After years as a struggling actor, Wisconsin-born Mark Ruffalo made his mark in the Oscar-nominated You Can Count on Me (2000). Hollywood finally took notice and Ruffalo was quickly cast in a series of films including Windtalkers, In the Cut and Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind. His next two films are the relationship drama We Don't Live Here Anymore and the action-packed Collateral, opposite Tom Cruise.*

Dear tribute.ca,
Thank you for adding the improved search function. It is a much better way to find out where a particular movie is playing and is wonderfully helpful. I don't live in any of the communities on your list, but in between several, and it is much easier to check where the preferred ones are playing without having to search by city several times.

S. D.

Dear Tribute,
In your April 2004 issue of Tribute you featured Renée Zellweger on the horoscope page. The opening line states that Renee's first role was in Dazed and Confused. I own the movie and have watched it countless times but I don't ever recall seeing her in it, nor is she listed in the credits. Could it be that someone is dazed and has her confused with Joey Lauren Adams?

*Ben Wright
Zellweger is impossible to find in the credits of Dazed and Confused because her non-speaking bit part as a high school senior is uncredited. It was, however, her feature film debut.*

Dear tribute.ca,
I love your website and the contests. I just wanted to know when The Passion Of The Christ is coming out on DVD and video.

Maurice Lee

The Passion will be coming out on DVD on August 31. Check the movie pages on tribute.ca for more DVD information on current theatrical releases.

Dear Tribute,
I would like to know all about Bernard Hill who played King Theoden in The Lord of the Rings trilogy. Where can I write to him and where can I get a photo?

Alice Thibodeau Saulnierville, N.S.

British actor Bernard Hill began his movie career in 1973. Though he's best known as King Theoden, his other roles include Joe Bradshaw in Shirley Valentine (1989), Captain Smith in Titanic (1997) and Philos in The Scorpion King (2002). Write to Hill c/o ICM Oxford House, 76 Oxford St., London, U.K. WINOAX.

Steven Jay Schneider
Barron's, $50.75

Determined to see all the best films ever made before departing this planet? Movie fans will discover a treasure-trove of ideas here. Compiled by editor Steven Jay Schneider, he details the movies not to be missed. Most are accompanied by photos. The list, divided into categories, includes action, adventure, animation, comedy, crime, documentary, drama, fantasy, family, horror, musical, mystery, romance, sci-fi, thriller, war and western. From Casablanca to Psycho, Schneider claims these are all movies to die for.

Hear it!

Shrek 2
Geffen

Shrek 2 ratchets up the original's comedy and frantic pacing; likewise, the music on this soundtrack surpasses the quality of its 2001 predecessor. This is a quintessentially upbeat collection of tunes, with new contributions from Counting Crows ("Accidentally In Love") and Eels ("I Need Some Sleep") sitting alongside classics like "Funkytown" by Lipps, Inc. While nothing can top Shrek's phenomenal "Hallelujah" cover by Rufus Wainwright, this time around, Pete Dinklage ably tackles "Ever Fallen In Love" by The Buzzcocks and Eddie Murphy/Antonio Banderas ham their way through Ricky Martin's "Livin' La Vida Loca".

Spider-Man 2
Sony Music Soundtrax

The high point of this soundtrack from the beloved web-slinger's thrilling sequel is "Vindicated", the soaring first single by Dashboard Confessional. Jet, The Ataris, Hoobastank and Yellowcard all contribute strong new songs, while bombastic older tunes from Lostprophets and Taking Back Sunday are equally good additions. The weak link this time around — is "Ordinary" by Train. Rounding out the disc is a collaboration between Queen's Brian May and Jimmy Gnecco of the band Ours; it's chilling how much this sounds like a lost Freddie Mercury recording.

De-Lovely
Sony Music Soundtrax

Cole Porter's music is timeless, and anyone who would argue that point needs a (heart and) soul transplant. This new film features Kevin Kline as the celebrated American composer and documents his life by framing it as though it were a musical. Kline and co-star Ashley Judd turn in wonderful acting and vocal performances themselves, but the real stars of the film are Porter's songs. A host of musical heavyweights make appearances in De-Lovely to bring those tunes to life, including Elvis Costello, Diana Krall, Robbie Williams, Alanis Morissette and Natalie Cole. Even if you dislike these artists' original material, the undeniable quality of Porter's songwriting will ensure you enjoy these inspired renditions. Could this be the next Chicago?

flash Ooh la la!

Stars from around the world frolicked on the French Riviera at the 57th annual Cannes Film Festival. American filmmaker Michael Moore's controversial Fahrenheit 9/11 became the first documentary to win Cannes' prestigious Palme d'Or since 1956. The film, a scathing indictment of White House actions following the September 11 attacks, was a surprise winner.

This year's Best Actress award went to Hong Kong star Maggie Cheung for her role as a junkie pop-star mother in Clean. The Best Actor winner was 14-year-old Yagira Yuuya for his performance in Nobody Knows, about four children abandoned by their mother in Tokyo.

Gorgeous Elizabeth Hurley attended the Chopard trophy party wearing, (what else?) Chopard jewelry.

Charlize Theron represented her film The Life and Death of Peter Sellers, in which she portrays Sellers' second wife, actress Britt Ekland.

Cannes jury president Quentin Tarantino escorted Uma Thurman, star of his film, Kill Bill, Vol. 2, to the premiere.

Party time

Justin Timberlake and Cameron Diaz are still together according to sources aboard a Qantas flight from Los Angeles to Melbourne, Australia. The folks in first class partied with the celebs after they changed into their free, first class pajamas and cracked open some champagne. Diaz challenged passengers to a game of Mah Jong, the latest craze in La-la Land. Then everyone watched the in-flight movie, 50 First Dates starring Diaz's pal, Drew Barrymore.

Out of control

Lindsay Lohan's dad is off to anger management class. His hot temper got him arrested after a fight with his brother-in-law at a family party in May. The scuffle put Lohan's uncle, Matt Sullivan, in hospital with a cut to the head. Her father, Michael Lohan, says he decided to try and get his anger under control after Lindsay tearfully told him she wanted her family back.

Gambling man

Ben Affleck won first place at a major poker tournament, walking away with big bucks. His take was $356,400 at the Commerce Casino's California State Poker Championship. The win qualifies him for a seat at the World Poker Tour Championship in Las Vegas next April. The actor beat out a field of nearly 90 other poker players including Tobey Maguire (Spider-Man 2). According to a casino spokesperson, Affleck has become a respected member of the poker elite.

Diva in action

Whitney Houston and hubby Bobby Brown shocked staff at Harrods in London recently when they reportedly arrived with a TV crew, danced around the store and asked to be given $18,000 worth of designer clothing for free. A few weeks later, Houston attended the Women's World Awards in Hamburg, Germany to receive an award. Rumor has it she requested a private plane, rejected the aircraft provided, asked for a different one and got it, pronto, then failed to show up at the opening night dinner.

Though actress Kate Bosworth didn't stroll the red carpet with boyfriend Orlando Bloom, she did sit with him at the screening of Troy.

Brad Pitt and Jennifer Aniston dispelled any rumors of marital trouble by attending the Cannes premiere of his film Troy together.

Following his win, director Michael Moore shouted to the jury, "What have you done? I am completely overwhelmed."

Orlando Bloom was among the cast members on hand to promote Troy.

Fahrenheit 9/11

Michael Moore is all fired up

It was, by accounts, the longest standing ovation in the history of the Cannes film festival. And it wouldn't be a Michael Moore movie if people didn't argue about it.

The controversial documentarian's Fahrenheit 9/11 — a savagely pointed attack on the presidency of George W. Bush — won the Palme d'Or at the fabled French Riviera film fest in June. And the first controversy was over the length of the ovation that erupted after presenter Charlize Theron handed the trophy to Moore. Reports varied from 15 minutes to 30, with accusations of political favoritism coloring even this simple recounting of events.

But a day after the jury selected Moore's documentary as the finest film from an entire world of submissions, jury president Quentin Tarantino made the unprecedented move of calling a press conference to defend the selection.

"I knew this politics crap would be brought up, and all that," Tarantino said, adding that he'd whispered in Moore's ear at the dais that the prize was for filmmaking "and that it was not about the politics."

For his part, Moore's reaction to his adoration on the Croisette was a flabbergasted "What have you done?

Merci!" followed by a call to defeat Bush in November's presidential election "so those who died in Iraq will not have died in vain."

It will, of course, not impress many people in the heart of Republican America that Michael Moore is the hero of France for his stance against the 43rd president of the United States. But this latest installment in the oeuvre of Flint, Michigan's most controversial son was perhaps the easiest to predict. His last movie — the also-incendiary Oscar-winning Bowling For Columbine — drew a direct line of the culture of gun violence in America from the Founding Fathers to the infamous massacre in a Littleton, Colo. high school to the horror of Sept. 11, hinting that Al Qaeda's crowning moment of devastation fit perfectly with the culture it attacked.

In Fahrenheit 9/11, he offers a litany of corporate connections between the Bushes and Bin Laden families and a list of corporate friends of "Dubya" who have profited from the reconstruction effort in Iraq (necessitated in the first place by the destruction wrought by U.S. forces).

There are also contemporary war-on-terror images, including graphic scenes of napalm immolation in Iraq, a beheading in Saudi Arabia and a scene of an Iraqi truck loaded with corpses following a skirmish with American troops. Add to that, footage of Bush in an American public school on Sept. 11, 2001, first looking like the proverbial deer-in-the-headlights after being informed of the destruction wreaked on the World Trade Center towers and the Pentagon, and then stolidly carrying on reading a children's book to the students for several minutes.

An ex-editor of the activist magazine Mother Jones, Moore makes no pretense of objectivity. From Roger & Me (his attempt to embarrass the CEO of General Motors after it laid off tens of thousands of workers in his hometown) to TV's The Awful Truth to Columbine, he has taken stands and turned them into crusades. There are as many websites devoted to debunking him as there are extolling him.

But Moore is not one to waste a moment in the media spotlight. "The film will pull back the veil, peel back the layers, so the people can see what is really going on. They will be shocked and they're going to be in awe and they will, I think, respond accordingly."

If nothing else, Fahrenheit 9/11 will be a rare film whose success will be judged by an electoral result, rather than by its box office.

any science fiction geek will tell you that half our imagined future would disintegrate in an instant if not for the Three Laws of Robotics. If you ever wondered why C-3PO never gave that bossy, smart-mouthed Han Solo a backhanded slap, it's probably because the android was also bound by the world-famous tenets that state:

1. A robot may not injure a human being or, through inaction, allow a human being to come to harm.
2. A robot must obey orders given it by human beings except where such orders would conflict with the First Law.
3. A robot must protect its own existence as long as such protection does not conflict with the First or Second Law.

The laws were conceived by the late, great speculative fiction icon, Isaac Asimov, whose 1950 short story collection, I, Robot, has now inspired a new film by the same name. The film stars Will Smith and is directed by Alex Proyas, who received critical acclaim in the 1990s for his work on The Crow and Dark City.

Smith (a sci-fi vet with the likes of Men in Black and Independence Day) plays Chicago Police Detective Del Spooner, who works the Windy City in the year 2035. Robots are everywhere, functioning as assistants and common workers for their human owners. "Robotophobic" Spooner is an anachronistic anomaly with grave reservations about his own high-tech environment, and his worst fears are confirmed when he and robot psychologist Dr. Susan Calvin (Bridget Moynahan) are called upon to investigate the murder of a scientist working at U.S. Robotics.

Implicated in the murder is Sonny (inspired by the movements of Alan Tudyk, à la Gollum in The Lord of the Rings), the first fully automated domestic assistant. But this would mean the First Law of Robotics – the most fundamental of the three – has been violated. And such a breach has profound implications to a society that has become so dependent on robots.

Asimov himself built much of his career on speculating what a robot-filled future might be like. While he published hundreds of books before his death in 1992, he is best remembered for his series of novels and short stories that centered on robots. In fact, two episodes from television's The Outer Limits (one from the 1960s original series; the other from the 1990s revival) have been titled I, Robot. His short story, Bicentennial Man, in which the title character is another robot programmed with the

Will Smith is on the case

Three Laws, inspired the 1999 movie of the same name starring Robin Williams.

Contemporary science fiction novelist Robert Sawyer argues that the Three Laws are nothing more than a literary device that is unlikely to influence how robotics develops in reality. The world is already filled with harmful "robots", from smart bombs to nasty software, and there is not much room for the Three Laws in a future extrapolated from such a present.

However, if the Laws are a literary device, there is no denying that they are a powerful one. "All of Asimov's stories seem to be about how the laws are circumvented," Proyas says in a featurette available on the new film's official Web site. However, appearances often can be deceiving, and a breach of one of the laws often points to something bigger and universally profound. "To me, that's a fascinating construct to build a story around."

Denzel Washington and Liev Schreiber

The Manchurian Candidate

Modern spin on a classic thriller to remake the classic 1962 political thriller, some big-time, Oscar-winning talent was enlisted, including Denzel Washington (Training Day), Meryl Streep (Sophie's Choice) and director Jonathan Demme (Silence Of The Lambs). While an all-star line-up never guarantees critical or box office success, it can't hurt.

Washington plays Bennett Marco, a Persian Gulf War veteran (that's the first Gulf War, in 1991), who realizes that he and several of his cohorts had been brainwashed by the enemy before they were sent home. One of those men is Raymond Shaw, played by the versatile Liev Schreiber who is running for Vice President of the United States. Shaw also happens to be under the control of his scheming mother, the powerful Senator Eleanor Shaw (Streep), who has an unusual influence on her son and his political aspirations. Got that? Don't worry about it. Suffice it to say that the story of The Manchurian Candidate is a twisted, slightly creepy tale of mind control and political intrigue.

The original version of The Manchurian Candidate is a taut, wonderfully bizarre drama that captured Cold War paranoia. Starring Frank Sinatra as Korean War veteran Marco and the amazing Laurence Harvey as Shaw, the story was ahead of its time in its trippy style and twisting plot. Playing Harvey's conniving mother was Angela Lansbury. Even though she was only three years older than Harvey, Lansbury's chilling performance was nominated for an Oscar.

The screenplay was the cause of much concern. Studio head Arthur Krim was a staunch Democrat, and the tale of a Democratic president being gunned down was not to his liking. So Frank Sinatra called up his old buddy, President John F. Kennedy, who encouraged Krim to make the flick.

Ironically, it was shortly after Kennedy's assassination that Sinatra pulled the film from theatres and kept it out of circulation until 1988, when it was re-released to critical praise.

The remake (produced by Sinatra's daughter Nancy) reunites Washington and Demme, who worked together on the AIDS drama, Philadelphia. It also re-teams Washington and Schreiber, who co-starred in The Hurricane five years ago.

Washington told Entertainment Tonight he wasn't intimidated about taking on Sinatra's challenging role. "I haven't seen it [the original] and I made a point not to," he says. "But from what I understand, there's been quite a few twists from the original."

Washington added he doesn't worry that people will compare the two versions of the thrilling story. "I think, what an opportunity to share it again, to get the opportunity to interpret great roles and to put our own spin on it."

Wondering why the title of the film is still The Manchurian Candidate when the backstory is set in the Middle East, not Asia? The title now refers to Schreiber's character being a representative of Manchurian Global, a large conglomerate.

Bwyneth Paltrow is a new mom and seems happier than ever with her musician hubby, Coldplay frontman Chris Martin. The Oscar-winning actress gave birth to baby girl Apple Blythe Alison Martin in a London hospital in mid-May. Before settling down, Paltrow had a hot dating history. She was once engaged to Brad Pitt and dated Ben Affleck and Luke Wilson.

This fall, Paltrow will be seen in the sci-fi adventure Sky Captain and the World of Tomorrow opposite Jude Law and also stars in the upcoming drama Proof with Jake Gyllenhaal. Currently, she's put her acting career on hold to enjoy motherhood, but is planning to produce and star in a new film about the life of screen legend Marlene Dietrich. The numbers alongside the names will help you with the running commentary.

1 Troy hunk Brad Pitt was engaged to Gwyneth Paltrow in 1996, but the two split the following year. Pitt dated actresses Juliette Lewis, Jill Schoelen and Robin Givens before marrying Jennifer Aniston of Friends fame in July of 2000.

2 Ben Affleck has been playing the field since the end of Bennifer in January of this year. He and Jennifer Lopez met while making Gigli together and were engaged in November 2002. Affleck and Paltrow were an item in 1998, but split a year later.

3 Rocker Chris Martin married Paltrow last December and is now celebrating fatherhood with their daughter, Apple. In the past, Martin dated Australian pop star Natalie Imbruglia.

4 Madonna's Maverick Records business partner Guy Oseary dated Demi Moore following her split from Bruce Willis. Oseary has also been linked to stunning Czech super-model Eva Herzigova.

5 Luke Wilson began dating Paltrow in 2001 after meeting on the set of The Royal Tenenbaums. He also had a one year relationship with his Best Men and Home Fries co-star Drew Barrymore in 1997.

6 Jennifer Lopez walked down the aisle for the third time on June 5. She married Latin singing star Marc Anthony before a small group of 40 guests in the garden of her Beverly Hills mansion. It all happened just five months after breaking off her engagement with Ben Affleck. From 1997-'98, Lopez was married to model Ojani Noa and in 2001, she wed dancer Chris Judd in a union that lasted less than a year. She also dated rap star Sean "P. Diddy" Combs.

7 After the breakup of her 13 year marriage to Bruce Willis, actress Demi Moore dated record exec Guy Oseary, Red Hot Chili Peppers frontman Anthony Kiedis and was linked to Colin Farrell. She made headlines after hooking up with Ashton Kutcher (That '70's Show, Punk'd). There are rumors the two are secretly married. In her younger days, she was engaged to fellow Brat Packer Emilio Estevez and was married to musician Freddie Moore.

8 Action star Bruce Willis (Die Hard, The Whole Ten Yards) was married to Demi Moore from 1987 to 2000. They have three daughters. He's also been linked to actress Estella Warren and porn star Alisha Klass. In May, he split with ex-Baywatch babe Brooke Burns.

9 Irish heartthrob Colin Farrell's charm has won him the affection of many beautiful women, including pop princess Britney Spears, actresses Rosario Dawson, Demi Moore and Maeve Quinlan. In July of 2001, he married Amelia Warner, but the marriage lasted only a few months. Last fall, he became a father when his former girlfriend, model Kim Bordenave, gave birth to a baby boy, James.

10 Brooke Burns, 26, and Bruce Willis, 49, recently ended their 10-month relationship. The Texan beauty was once linked to Steve Bing, former boyfriend of actress Elizabeth Hurley. In December 1999, she married actor Julian McMahon (TV's Nip/Tuck). They divorced in 2001.

11 Britney Spears is so hot and heavy with dancer Kevin Federline that the two are rumored to be engaged. However, his ex-lover, former Moehsa TV actress Shar Jackson, is due to have their second child any day. Earlier this year, Spears married childhood friend Jason Alexander. The marriage was annulled 55 hours later. Her relationship with

'N Sync's Justin Timberlake ended in March 2002.

12 After they met on the film set for the comedy Just Married, Brittany Murphy became Ashton Kutcher's main squeeze for a year, until they split and he began seeing Demi Moore. The actress recently broke up with her fiancé, publicist Jeffrey Kwatinetz, after a four month engagement. At one time, Murphy was linked to her 8 Mile co-star, Eminem.

13 Multimillionaire producer Steve Bing is popular with the ladies. He dated Brooke Burns and was involved with Elizabeth Hurley for a year, but the two split before the birth of their son, Damian in the spring of 2002. Paternity tests confirmed he's the father. In the past, Bing has been linked to Sharon Stone, Farrah Fawcett and Uma Thurman.

14 Justin Timberlake is still very much involved with actress Cameron Diaz who is nine years his senior. Following his split with Britney Spears in early 2002, he was linked to dancer Jenna Dewan, his wardrobe malfunction pal Janet Jackson and Charmed star Alyssa Milano.

Canadians in the Dark About Gingivitis Risk Factors

Gingivitis. It's a familiar word for an extremely common condition. But do Canadians really know what it means? New survey results reveal that even though more than three quarters of Canadians suffer from gingivitis, only 48 per cent can accurately define gingivitis as the earliest stage of gum disease. And to compound matters, most Canadians aren't aware of the hidden risk factors that make people more prone to getting gingivitis.

If Canadians claim to know what gingivitis is, only 48 per cent of us can accurately define it.

While the vast majority of Canadians claim to practice good oral hygiene, only 48 per cent can accurately define gingivitis as the earliest stage of gum disease.

Spotlight On Gingivitis

So if most Canadians have gingivitis – why don't we know more about it?

Between the sexes, more women than men know what the term 'gingivitis' means (78%). Knowledge of gingivitis is higher in Canada – 89 per cent of Americans know what gingivitis is, while 48 per cent of Canadians are unaware of the term. And 48 per cent of Canadians are unaware of the term 'gingivitis'.

75% of people have gingivitis.

Chances are, you're one of them. Ask your dental professional.

LISTERINE

Listerine helps prevent gingivitis when used with proper oral hygiene and dental care. Gingivitis is a minor inflammation of the gums caused by plaque above the gumline. *TM Warner-Lambert Company, Inc. use Pfizer Canada Inc., Toronto, ON M1L 2N3

Smith²

Hollywood power couple Will Smith and Jada Pinkett Smith juggle fame and family

Call it the summer of Smith — Will and Jada that is. The Tinseltown twosome has films battling for supremacy at the box office this summer — I, Robot for him and Collateral for her.

The sci-fi thriller I, Robot marks Will Smith's 13th feature film. "It's a big Fox blockbuster, robots fighting, blowing up, it's beautiful," says Smith, who describes himself as a true science-fiction fan. "I play a detective who's investigating the first robot on human murder."

In Michael Mann's Collateral, Pinkett Smith is also on the right side of the law as a federal prosecutor opposite Tom Cruise, a hit man aiming to rub out four of her key witnesses (and has her marked for death as well).

With successful film careers, and by all reports one of the strongest marriages in Hollywood today, the Smiths are a showbiz super couple who are just as happy snuggling on the red carpet as they are spending time at home with their kids.

The charismatic Smith began his climb to stardom as half of the Grammy-winning duo D.J. Jazzy Jeff and the Fresh Prince, and later rose to fame making his acting debut starring as The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air (NBC, 1990-96), a nice, jug-eared, streetwise kid from the Philadelphia 'hood, adjusting to culture shock in moneyed Bel Air. It was a leap for the singer — but one he was ready to make.

“When I came from rap music, I wasn’t trying to use the fact that I was a rapper to become an actor. I started at zero as an actor. Even with the Fresh Prince, I was like, ‘I’m not rapping on this show.’ They talked me into the opening credits, but I said, ‘When I do this show, I’m strictly an actor,’” he explains.

The role allowed him to present a squeaky clean image of hip-hop culture, which proved non-threatening to primetime values. The show also led to a fortuitous meeting with a young actress from Baltimore named Jada Pinkett. The petite brunette auditioned for the role of Smith’s girlfriend, but didn’t get the job, with producers figuring she was too short (5’2”) to play opposite Smith, who is a foot taller.

However, Pinkett was busy making her own way on television, landing a role on The Cosby Show spin-off A Different World. She made her feature film debut two years later in Menace II Society. Later, she caught Hollywood’s eye opposite Eddie Murphy in the 1996 movie The Nutty Professor, which led to roles in Scream 2, Kingdom Come and most recently, as Niobe in The Matrix Reloaded and Revolutions.

In the years after their first encounter, the two remained friends and were married on New Year’s Eve, 1997. The couple now has three children, son Jaden, daughter Willow and son Willard Smith III (Trey), from Smith’s first marriage to Sheree Zampino which ended in divorce in 1995.

The couple and Zampino are still friendly for the sake of Trey (who Pinkett Smith lovingly refers to as her “bonus child”). “Sheree and I have done such a good job trying to overcome differences like two grown women,” Pinkett Smith once told David Letterman.

Smith admits he learned a lot about himself through the mistakes he made in past relationships before Pinkett Smith. They, “shaped me into the person I am, to be successful for the rest of my life with Jada,” he told USA Weekend.

For her part, family takes precedence over fame. “I just always want to be able to have an opportunity to work,” comments Pinkett Smith. “I try to make sure I’m not forgotten, so when I do want to work, I can always go out and get that meeting or what-have-you, but my priority is my family. I do love doing what I do, but you can’t have two superstars in the family. We already have one. Will Smith. So I knew that going into a relationship with Will, and that’s how we keep our family balanced.”

“I do love doing what I do, but you can’t have two superstars in the family. We already have one. Will Smith. So I knew that going into a relationship with Will, and that’s how we keep our family balanced.”

Will Smith plays a cop investigating the murder of a human by an android in I, Robot.

After huge success on TV, Smith made the leap to movies. His first leading role was a dramatic stretch for the young performer. In the film version of John Guare’s Six Degrees of Separation (1993), he played a young gay hustler, a part that called for Smith to kiss another man on the mouth. Smith refused and eventually the smooch had to be faked. Despite some critical carping, Smith won largely impressive notices for his portrayal amidst a cast of seasoned acting pros.

After this acclaim, Smith joined fellow sitcom star Martin Lawrence in Bad Boys (1995). Made on a modest budget, the film grossed $65 million domestically, and turned Smith into a sex symbol.

“The scene in the first film with me running with my shirt open, changed the entire future of my career,” recalls Smith. “Up until that point, no one ever looked at me sexually. After that shot, I sat in the back of a movie theater, and heard this woman go, ‘Hmm,’ and that was it. I was like, 'Wow! she wants to do it with me,' and that was a shock because I've always attracted women with comedy."

After Bad Boys, his feature film dance card quickly filled up. His first taste of blockbuster fame came as a military pilot trying to save the USA from an alien invasion in Independence Day (1996).

Smith again tangled with space aliens to box office success, when he teamed with Tommy Lee Jones as the Men in Black (1997), roles they eventually repeated in the inevitable sequel, Men in Black II (2002).

All smiles at the Academy Awards in 1997.

however, acknowledged Smith's efforts and included him as one of the 2001 nominees for Best Actor.

It also marked the first time Smith and Pinkett Smith shared screen time. "It was great when we did Ali together," admits Pinkett Smith who played Ali's first wife. "Just a little something, just to see, you know, just to test the waters like, 'Oh, okay, that was cool,'"

After completing last summer's Bad Boys II, Smith went straight to work on I, Robot in Vancouver. This fall, Smith switches gears to voice Oscar, a fast-talking hustler fish in the animated film Shark Tale. "It's fun. My kids love it," Smith told The Associated Press, while promoting the film in Cannes with co-stars Angelina Jolie and Jack Black.

As the rebel hovership captain Niobe in Matrix Revolutions.

In 2001, after several hits including Enemy of the State and a couple of misses (The Legend of Bagger Vance), Smith realized a long-held dream to portray renowned boxer Muhammad Ali in a biopic directed by Michael Mann. Smith bulked up, gaining over 30 pounds, and followed the same training regimen as Ali in preparation for the film. The onscreen results impressed many critics; while some others felt Smith came close, but didn't quite capture the boxing champion. The Academy,

"That was one of the big reasons I wanted to do it, just something that my kids could watch and enjoy."

Pinkett Smith has also signed on for her own turn as an animated character. She provides the voice of Gloria the Hippo in the upcoming animated movie Madagascar about a group of animals, freed from a New York Zoo, only to find themselves stranded in primitive Madagascar trying to cope with life there, after the Manhattan experience.

In addition to her film career, Pinkett Smith is proving her husband is not the only musically-inclined member of the family. She and her band Wicked Wisdom recently fronted eight shows for Britney Spears' tour in the U.K.

On top of that, UPN recently renewed the TV show All Of Us, which is executive produced by the Smiths, and based on a situation much like their own—a couple trying to make a blended family work.

With varied careers that have seen more highs than lows, Will Smith says good things do come to those who put out the same good vibes.

"I believe in the concepts, the basic elements of treating people nice and the metaphysics of karma, the concept of, if you do something good, something good will happen." It seems to be working for the Smiths.

—with files from Robin Lynch and Ivor Davis

Smith earned an Oscar nod for his work in Ali.

Hellboy Columbia TriStar Home Entertainment

Based on Mike Mignola's decade-old Dark Horse Entertainment comic series of the same name, Hellboy chronicles the adventures of a paranormal hero (played by Ron Perlman) who was born in the depths of hell but rescued and raised on Earth by the benevolent Dr. Broom so he could protect the world from evil. This special effects blockbuster enters the home on two DVDs with some "hell-raising" special features, including eight branching DVD comics drawn by Mignola, a "Right Hand of Doom" set visit feature, interviews with director Guillermo del Toro and co-star Selma Blair, audio commentaries, storyboards, a two-hour "Seeds of Creation" documentary, deleted scenes and DVD-ROM content.

Starsky & Hutch Warner Bros. Home Video

The funky crime-fighting television series from the '70s makes its feature film debut with Ben Stiller and Owen Wilson as Starsky & Hutch, in this action-comedy flick that serves as a prequel to the hit TV show. Directed by Todd Phillips (Old School, Road Trip), the story follows two unlikely undercover detectives – the overzealous David Starsky (Stiller) and the easygoing Ken "Hutch" Hutchinson (Wilson) – who pair up with their savvy street informant Huggy Bear (rapper Snoop Dogg) to investigate a mysterious murder case. Also starring Vince Vaughn. DVD supplemental material includes featurettes, director commentary, deleted scenes, trailers and more. Available in either full-screen or widescreen versions. Groovy!

Agent Cody Banks 2: Destination London MGM Home Entertainment

Everyone's favorite teenage secret agent returns in this action-packed sequel. Agent Cody Banks 2: Destination London once again stars Frankie Muniz (Malcolm in the Middle) who now must go undercover to — you guessed it — jolly 'ol England — to recover a stolen mind-control device from the hands of a diabolical madman (aren't they always diabolical?). Posing as a private school student to get close to the action, this pint-sized 007 must prevent his classmates from discovering his true identity, all the while using his clever gadgets and savoir faire to save the world. Extras include an "Agent Mode" interactive quiz, a "Spy on the Set" visual cast commentary, a "Back in Action" featurette, deleted scenes, theatrical trailers and more.

Never Die Alone 20th Century Fox Home Entertainment

Rapper-turned-actor DMX steps into the role of King David, a powerful drug dealer who returns home seeking salvation but instead finds cold-blooded vengeance. Based on the novel by the late Donald Goines, this gritty urban tale is narrated by the now-deceased ruthless kingpin whose cassette tapes shed light on a life filled with violence, misogyny, drugs and depravity. The film co-stars David Arquette as an aspiring writer. This two-disc set includes both widescreen and full-screen versions of the film, optional director and actor commentary, deleted scenes (with optional commentary), a "making of" featurette and multiple audio options.

Secret Window Columbia TriStar Home Entertainment

From writer/director David Koepp (who penned Panic Room) comes this thriller based on a short story by Stephen King. Johnny Depp plays Mort Rainey, a famed novelist who is confronted at his isolated cabin by a psychotic writer (John Turturro) who accuses him of plagiarism and demands satisfaction. Bonus features on the DVD include audio commentary by Koepp, four deleted scenes with optional director commentary, animated storyboards and three behind-the-scenes featurettes: "A Look Through It," "From Book to Film" and "Secrets Revealed."

The Butterfly Effect

New Line Home Entertainment

Forget the silly Ashton Kutcher you know from That '70s Show, Punk'd and Dude, Where's My Car? — the actor takes a dramatic turn with The Butterfly Effect, a chilling thriller about a young man who finds he could travel back in time to his disturbing childhood to make some changes, but in doing so, alters the course of the future. This "Infinifilm" DVD is loaded with bonus material including an optional two-hour director's cut of the film, many behind-the-scenes featurettes, filmmaker commentary, deleted and alternate scenes, storyboards, a gallery, theatrical trailers, DVD-ROM content and a Web link to exclusive online content.

Reality Bites Anniversary Edition

Universal Studios Home Entertainment

Yes, it's really been 10 years since this story of Generation-X confusion was released. Winona Ryder plays a recent grad struggling with career and relationship issues, while Ethan Hawke and Ben Stiller play the men pursuing her. Also features great turns by Steve Zahn and Janeane Garofalo in buddy roles. The anniversary edition DVD includes deleted scenes with on-camera introductions by director Ben Stiller and writer Helen Childress, audio commentary, a Reality Bites retrospective with new interviews plus a Lisa Loeb (remember her?) "Stay" featurette and music video.

Tribute's Top Tech Toys

Here's a look at the latest gadgets, gizmos and gear.

Creative MuVo TX 512

$349; nomadworld.com

Imagine having more than 16 hours of non-skip music — all in a keychain-sized portable MP3 player. It exists with Creative's latest MuVo digital music device that stores a whopping 512MB of internal memory. Best of all, there's no need to fumble with cords and complicated software to get the music onto the player — this tiny player becomes a USB dongle that fits in all PC USB ports (either USB 1.1 or USB 2.0, the latter of which is 40 times faster). Simply plug it in, drag and drop songs onto the player, remove, then go. As a bonus, the Nomad MuVo TX doubles as a flash drive so users can transport non-audio files between PCs, such as photos, videos, documents, presentations and email (about 350 floppies worth of data).

Nokia N-Gage QD

$249; n-gage.com

We dig the Nintendo Game Boy Advance SP, but let's face it — it can't do 3-D, and who wants to connect a cable to another device for multiplayer matches? Introducing Nokia's N-Gage QD, its second-generation handheld machine that marries a portable video gaming platform with a mobile phone, so users can log onto the N-Gage Arena service via their cell carrier, to find and challenge other N-Gage users around the globe. Downloadable content such as bonus levels, characters and weapons also adds to the fun. Unlike last year's version, the N-Gage QD (no, the "QD" doesn't stand for anything) is much smaller and more comfortable, plus game cartridges (sold separately) can be inserted much easier. Oh, and did we mention it's also a phone?

Cyber-shot DSC-P100

$599; sonystyle.ca

Not all digital cameras are created equal — Sony's new Cyber-shot DSC-P100 may be a compact digi-cam but it's packed with huge features including five-megapixel quality, a Carl Zeiss 3x optical zoom lens for quick auto-focusing and a large 1.8-inch high-resolution LCD display on the back of the unit. The P100 also features a smart auto focus and exposure system that compensates for low light conditions and uneven composition, plus savvy users can add a separate telephoto and wide angle lens converter, if so desired. And Sony's InoLithium battery technology means the P100 will last a lot longer than other digicams currently on the market.

High-Definition Personal Video Recorder

$799 or $24.99 a month; rogers.com

Rogers Cable's first high-definition-based personal video recorder — a box that records television programming onto a PC-like hard drive — is now available to HDTV owners in Ontario, New Brunswick and Newfoundland. With the Scientific-Atlanta Explorer 8000HD PVR (boy, that's a mouthful), Rogers Digital Cable subscribers can record up to 20 hours of high-definition content or 90 hours of regular television (just try to do that with your VCR or recordable DVD player). Other benefits include pausing and "rewinding" live TV and skipping through commercials on previously recorded content with one button press. It's also a dual tuner, so it's possible to record one show and watch another. Liberate your TV!

Driv3r Atari; for PlayStation 2 and Xbox; $59.99 to $64.99

The convergence between the silver screen and small screen continues with Atari's Driv3r (a.k.a. Driver 3), the latest and most ambitious video game that fuses fast-action gameplay with Hollywood talent, special effects and a narrative storyline. Once again gamers climb behind the wheel as Tanner (voiced by Michael Madsen), a tough-as-nails undercover cop who, along with his partner, Tobias, must infiltrate a global car theft ring. Gameplay is split between relentless car chases and on-foot gunplay, as the duo attempts to bring these criminals to justice. Driv3r features open-ended city environments, complete with bustling traffic, pedestrians and more than 50 drivable vehicles.

Full Spectrum Warrior

THQ; for Xbox; $59.99

Based on a light infantry-training simulator created for the U.S. Army, Full Spectrum Warrior is an intense modern combat war game that challenges players to take command over two four-man squads. That is, rather than take control of any one soldier, players must become a sergeant and issue orders to alpha and bravo teams, both of which are controlled from an over-the-shoulder, third-person perspective. Boot camp is mandatory, but will help gamers refine tasks such as studying the environment, moving squads in formation towards a house guarded by insurgents and then exchanging bullets while using building corners and cars as cover. Optional online modes lets gamers play cooperatively or head-to-head.

MTV Music Generator 3: This is the Remix

Codemasters; for PlayStation 2 and Xbox; $49.99

Turn your console into a recording studio with this latest installment in the popular music-making series. This DVD "game" lets budding DJs create and edit original music tracks pooled from more than 4,000 samples stored on the disc. New to this version is the option to remix 10 of today's popular hip-hop, rap and reggae songs, such as OutKast's "The Way U Move", Snoop Dogg's "From Tha Chuuch To Da Palace", Sean Paul's "Get Busy" and Fabolous' "This is My Party", plus other music styles including R&B, trance, electronica, house and garage. Alternatively, players can import samples ripped from their own music CD collection. Fun for musically-inclined players age 8 to 98.

Athens 2004

989 Sports; for PlayStation 2; $59.99

Armchair athletes, listen up! You too can compete in the summer Olympics – virtually speaking, of course – with the only officially licensed Olympics video game for the PS2. Athens 2004 features a variety of Olympic sports, including aquatics, track and field, gymnastics, archery, equestrian, marksmanship and weightlifting categories. It includes more than 25 events in which to compete; players must first select to represent one of 64 countries before entering the practice, arcade or competition modes. The game will support up to four players on the same screen and includes seven authentic competition venues, including the Olympic Stadium for Athletics and the Markopoulo Olympic Equestrian Centre.

Classic NES Limited Edition Game Boy Advance SP

Nintendo; $139.99

From popular remakes of 20-year-old songs to the best-selling Indiana Jones DVD box set to the return of clothes with – dare we say it – color, the 1980s are cool once again. Nintendo has also gone "retro" with a classic version of its Game Boy machine and a collection of original Nintendo Entertainment System (NES) titles from the mid-'80s.

The "Classic NES Limited Edition" Game Boy Advance SP resembles the first Nintendo television console launched in Canada 19 years ago — complete with its black and grey finish and bright red buttons. Value-priced oldies ($29.99) that are playable on any Game Boy Advance include: The Legend of Zelda, Donkey Kong, Super Mario Bros., Excitebike, Bomberman, Ice Climber, Pac-Man and Xevious: The Avenger.

Plenty of hot star power in Toronto this summer.

Rob Lowe has been getting a lot of attention as he jogs through our city streets and enjoys our restaurants. He's shooting the romantic comedy Perfect Strangers about a high-powered New York advertising exec who switches lives with a junior ad rep from London as part of his company exchange program.

Anjelica Huston is in Toronto directing the CBS TV movie Slow Ride. The film stars Andie MacDowell as a New York photographer and Rosie O'Donnell in her network television movie debut, as her developmentally disabled sister.

Julianne Moore is spending her summer here shooting The Prize Winner of Defiance, Ohio from producer Robert Zemeckis. The script is based on author Terry Ryan's childhood memories of her strong-willed mother who single-handedly raised 10 children and rescued her family from debt in the '50s and '60s, through her winnings in a series of jingle-writing contests.

Daredevil stunt specialist Evel Knievel is the subject of an upcoming TNT film also in production in Toronto. Evel stars CSI: Crime Scene Investigation hottie George Eads (Nick Stokes) in the title role. Mel Gibson is exec producer.

The romantic comedy Cake has whipped up a recipe for success. Heather Graham (Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me) stars as a free-spirited travel writer whose fear of relationships is tested after taking over her father's business, a conservative bridal magazine. Cheryl Hines (Curb Your Enthusiasm) plays Graham's boss. Sandra Oh co-stars. The film is directed by Nisha Ganatra (Chutney Popcorn).

Residents of West Toronto were doing double takes when they saw Brown's Line turned into an American street for the Disney feature The Pacifier. Vin Diesel was on hand to shoot a racing scene. There have been Vin Diesel sightings all over the city.

Another intriguing biopic is in production here. Hustle, an ESPN movie, is based on the life of Pete Rose. The story chronicles the controversial baseball star's gambling-related downfall in the '80s and stars another bad boy, Tom Sizemore as Rose.

Canada's own Eugene Levy, usually a supporting player, finally has his own starring vehicle. The Hamilton-born comic actor has been shooting The Man in Toronto opposite Samuel L. Jackson

—Elaine Loring

In Vancouver, Jennifer Garner (13 Going on 30) and on again/off again boyfriend Michael Vartan appeared very much a couple during the filming of Elektra. Garner plays a warrior-turned-assassin in the action/adventure flick, which will show off the star's toned body and martial arts skills. Terence Stamp (The Limey) co-stars.

Garner's athletic prowess was also on display during a spirited Frisbee game at Kitsilano Beach with Vartan. The two later cuddled on a beach blanket.

Justin Timberlake rented an upscale, west-side house in Vancouver during the filming of Edison. The singer-turned-actor, who is making his feature film debut, quickly found his place thronged with fans camping outside on the street. Fortunately, Timberlake brought along his own security staff. The fledgling actor has a small role as a reporter in the thriller, which co-stars Morgan Freeman, Kevin Spacey and LL Cool J.

Timberlake has been busy about town during his time off, taking in a musical, visiting the venerable downtown Vancouver Art Gallery and hanging out at the central library where some of the film's scenes were shot. Nighttime activities have included spinning records at a west-side club, dancing at Bar None, shopping for music on Robson Street and wining and dining Diaz.

The summer production season in Nova Scotia is in full swing. Filming has begun on a television movie about the Green River killer. Although details on The Riverman remain sketchy, we know it's the true story of an investigator who was aided by Ted Bundy to bring the Green River serial killer to justice.

Word has it Cary Elwes, Kathleen Quinlan and Canadian star Bruce Greenwood (I, Robot) may all have roles in the psychological thriller.

Another TV pic is also shooting in Halifax, as Mariska Hargitay (Law & Order: Special Victims Unit) comes to the province to film the Lifetime Network movie Plain Truth. Based on the best-seller by Jodi Picoult, it's the story of a young Amish woman (Alison Pill) accused of killing her newborn baby, and the cynical Philadelphia lawyer (Hargitay) who defends her. Hargitay is the daughter of legendary screen siren Jayne Mansfield and body builder Mickey Hargitay.

With these projects already underway, and several others in development, summer promises to be a hot time for Nova Scotia's film industry. Stay tuned.

The Bourne Supremacy

Matt Damon is on the run again

the look of science fiction movies changed forever in 1982 with the release of Ridley Scott's Blade Runner and its cyberpunk dystopian vision. However, Philip K. Dick, whose short story "Do Androids Dream of Electric Sheep?" inspired the movie, never lived to see its success. He had passed away from heart failure earlier that same year.

Theodore Seuss Geisel, a.k.a. Dr. Seuss, refused to option his books to Hollywood when he was alive. Since his death in 1991, his estate has agreed to option some of his work and How the Grinch Stole Christmas hit theaters in time for the first holiday season of the New Millennium. (It was followed by The Cat in the Hat last year.)

With the tremendous success of 2002's surprise hit The Bourne Identity, the late Robert Ludlum joined the ranks of authors who, due to their untimely demise, just missed their work's most significant rein-carnations on the silver screen. Ludlum, celebrated for decades as a master of the spy thriller before his death in 2001, may receive even greater posthumous recognition, if the release of this summer's The Bourne Supremacy sets a trend.

In The Bourne Supremacy, Matt Damon

(Good Will Hunting, The Talented Mr. Ripley) returns as the painfully vulnerable killing machine Jason Bourne, who continues to find himself plagued by splintered nightmares from his former life as a CIA assassin. Drawn against his will once again into deadly circumstances beyond his control, he maneuvers through international espionage, encountering CIA plots and ever-shifting covert alliances, when an assassin claiming to be him, kills two people. All the while, he desperately seeks the truth behind his haunted memories, and clues to his own fragmented past.

Damon promises the new film is not the typical sequel. "There are some shocking things that happen early on," he told Entertainment Weekly. "It's a dark story. Hopeful, but dark. It's pretty intense what the character goes through," he says.

Franka Potente reprises her role as Bourne's companion Marie, his sole confidant in the previous movie. Returning also is Julia Stiles (Mona Lisa Smile) as Nicolette, the last CIA operative to have seen Bourne alive, who will have a much bigger part to play in her second outing. Rounding out the cast is acclaimed actress Joan Allen (The Contender) as a hard-nosed CIA officer hot on Bourne's tracks. The Bourne Supremacy is directed by Paul Greengrass (Bloody Sunday).

Ludlum penned 21 novels, all of which were New York Times bestsellers. Although most of Ludlum's novels have been optioned for film, only a handful made it to the big or small screen. In fact, aside from The Bourne Identity, arguably the only other successful adaptation thus far has been the 1988 TV mini-series based on the same novel. Other films such as the Osterman Weekend (1983) and the Holcroft Covenant (1985) fell flat, despite the presence of such Hollywood icons as Burt Lancaster, Dennis Hopper and Michael Caine.

Still, perhaps The Bourne Supremacy will prove that the previous film's success was not a fluke, and that Hollywood has finally found the winning formula in bringing Ludlum's novels to the big screen. If that is the case, it is probably a good thing that Bourne is still in action in the absence of his creator. Coinciding with the film's arrival in theaters, North American publishers are set to release The Bourne Legacy, a new book by Black Heart author Eric Van Lustbader.

aries march 21 - april 20

Everyone's heading off on vacation — and you're left holding the bag. Oh, well. Time to let those in charge know you can keep the production on schedule. Back at home base, you and your other half, host several barbecues. By the 17th, you should find it much easier to get the show on the road. Late in the month, others seem to want to convert you to new beliefs. Diplomatically resist all pressure and stick to your guns. The 24th brings a break from responsibility that's both uplifting and comforting.

taurus april 21 - may 21

It's hard to make a getaway, even a short one, as July dawns. Still, there's an action-filled scenario around home base. Expect the unexpected, including a surprise visitor or two. And if you're looking, a new co-star could walk in the door mid-month. Whatever your status, you'll play out more than one steamy summer love scene. Later, there's a strong focus on your career sector. Use a social event to orchestrate an important meeting on the 24th. Toot your own horn — and loudly.

gemini may 22 - june 21

The urge to splurge is overwhelming. But if you think you can afford it, you probably can't. It's nice to dream, but most of your financial fantasies are just that now. Still, business and pleasure mix well after the 12th, and you'll make plenty of useful contacts. Your usual bound-

Tom Hanks - Cancer, born July 9, 1956, Concord, CA

A dreamy Moonchild, Tom Hanks' career is strewn with hits, from Splash (1984) to Saving Private Ryan (1998) to Forrest Gump (1994). A sign known for emotional depths, he has shown a remarkable dramatic range as well as comedic flair. Off screen, he projects the sensitivity and genuine niceness of his sign. Hanks endures as one of the most popular actors going, though given to occasional bouts of crankiness. Like the moon, his career has gone through many phases. He has tried his hand at writing and directing, but returns to what he seems to do best, acting. This year he stars in The Terminal and lends his voice to The Polar Express. By December of this year, he is ready to make some sweeping and dramatic changes to his life scenario. Several relationships, including his marriage, will come under fire. Those that survive, will last a lifetime, as will a new-found burst of creativity.

less energy seems to dip mid-month. Take a break if you can, and by the 19th, you're back in fine fettle. A pleasant social cycle kicks off around the 22nd. Indulge your culture-vulture side and love of the offbeat at a summer festival or two.

cancer june 22 - july 22

Your famous shyness floats off on a summer breeze. In fact, most of July, you're almost bold. Speaking your mind is the best strategy to gain your heart's desire, personal or professional. You wine-and-dine business associates in style around the 19th. One such meeting just might lead to a promising new business partnership. By the 22nd, your mind is totally on business. Look ahead to better financial times. Good deals or arrangements are favored on the 29th.

leo july 23 - aug 23

Batten the hatches: friendships are in for some summer squalls. But the all-clear sounds after the 7th. Meanwhile, plenty of happy social times bring new acquaintances your way. Someone you meet by chance around the 19th, provides a career tip. And romance is definitely in the cards most of the month. In fact, you can charm just about anyone and are at your persuasive best. The 22nd is most promising to cement an important agreement, while the 26th is optimum for heart-to-hearts.

virgo aug 24 - sept 23

Man the barbecue early in the month. Simply plan a few gatherings with those near and dear, and don't sweat the details. The happiest occasions now are spontaneous ones. Around the 12th, getting your point across proves an exercise in frustration. But by month's end, all outstanding issues are resolved. Jupiter still graces your sign through September. This is the home stretch: time to finetune your life scenario. Ask for the moon, you just might get it. And a new real-life co-star as well.

libra sept 24 - oct 23

Less than top billing? Relax, your star is on the rise. Lie low this month, and plan your big debut for late September. Meanwhile, your quiet brilliance could attract a promising new co-star. But it's on the 19th that the love scenario really goes supernova. Later in the month, you downshift, in an effort to get away from it all. Try losing yourself in a good movie or two. Somehow, looking at the big picture reminds you not to sweat the small stuff. Hit the road if you can, late in the month. Just be cool on the 24th, when tempers flare.

scorpio oct 24 - nov 22

You're screening blockbuster vacation plans. But can you really afford that dream trip? The answer comes clear by mid-month. Finances continue to be a big theme all month. You can make some savvy purchases at summer sales or flea markets. Late in the month, the focus shifts to enjoying life's pleasures. You can manage to indulge sanely and sensually, especially on the 19th. You can't believe a stroke of luck around the 26th. Though you're tempted to grab it, hold out for a better deal.

sagittarius nov 23 - dec 21

You kick free of a romantic entanglement. Enjoy your freedom, but try not to leave any bruised feelings behind. You're more than ready for a big vacation. Trends are best after the 22nd to indulge the wanderlust. By month's end, your other favorite subject, education, comes to the fore. If you can combine the two, great. If not, make big plans for the fall.

capricorn dec 22 - jan 20

You're floating on a cloud. A romance is what's keeping your feet off the ground. Getaways a deux are favored around the 9th and 17th. By mid-month, you'll have to come back to earth. Fortunately, work you did behind the scenes is finally recognized. This could put you in a position to call all the shots in the coming months. Go ahead, up your self-confidence. Just don't challenge an up-and-comer on the 26th.

aquarius jan 21 - feb 18

Much as you try to please those around you, they're not happy campers. Best just let them be. Focus instead on vacation plans that previously failed to gel. Do resist flashing the credit cards to impress people around the 16th. A weekend getaway with your partner promises to bring you closer together. Don't shrug off a minor spat on the 27th. Once you address it, the good times roll.

pisces feb 19 - march 20

You're overdue for a break. Go ahead and indulge in some R & R, especially outdoors, early in the month. You may be considering a deep relationship commitment around the 5th. But with new revelations about your co-star due all month long, you'd best hold off on firming anything up. Most of July, friends both new and old, prove they're on your side. Some serious late-night discussions help you clarify your goals.

Looking rail-thin at the premiere of New York Minute in May.

In caps and gowns at their high school graduation in L.A. on June 7.

Mary-Kate and boyfriend David Katzenberg, 21, son of DreamWorks movie mogul Jeffrey, at an NBA finals game in L.A.

Rumors of Mary-Kate's eating disorder surfaced after fans saw her at their Hollywood Walk of Fame ceremony.

Trouble in paradise mary-Kate and Ashley Olsen can't stay out of the spotlight. First, the sisters made headlines graduating from high school at Campbell Hall in Los Angeles on June 7. A week later, they turned 18, and officially became co-presidents of their billion dollar corporation, DualStar Entertainment Group and gained control of their $300 million fortune in childhood earnings. Their merchandise empire includes books, CDs, videos and a highly-successful line of beauty and fashion items available at Wal-Mart and Shoppers Drug Mart.

Sounds picture perfect, but before another week had passed, Mary-Kate Olsen, the darker-haired of the duo, checked into a facility for treatment of an eating-related issue said to be anorexia.

Rumors of her eating disorder had been circulating for several months, though the Olsen's representatives denied them. Reports indicate Mary-Kate's problems intensified through June, following speculation her relationship with boyfriend David Katzenberg (son of DreamWorks movie mogul Jeffrey), was rocky, and the disappointing box office take for the twin's second feature film, New York Minute.

Spokesman Michael Pagnotta, says of Mary-Kate, who is just over five-feet tall, "She made a very courageous, precautionary decision. She wants to be healthy."

Treatment is expected to last 30 days. Mary-Kate and Ashley are planning to move to New York to attend NYU in the fall.

"Did that say, 'Welcome to the Yukon'?"

"Then left at Ridge Falls."

"This doesn't look familiar."

"We should've gone right at Falling Rock."
